Schools brace for MCAS confusion

High stakes test results are released

By Abigail Adams
aadam@wickedlocal.com

Cohasset Public Schools are bracing for backlash from the new MCAS test as some students who once scored "proficient" on the MCAS test may only score "partially meets expectations" on the new exam. But they will not be alone.

Although scores have not been sent home to families, students

"People are going to struggle with the interpretation of it. We are really aware of that."

Assistant Superintendent Patrick Sullivan

and families across the state have already begun to grapple with the confounding results. School officials say they are gearing up for a wave of confusion.

"People are going to struggle with the interpretation of it," said Assistant Superintendent Patrick Sullivan. "We are really aware of that."

But Cohasset school officials said they are prepared to combat any questions families may have about the new results. Clarifying the intricate subject, however, can certainly be a big task to undertake.

What happened to PARCC?

No, PARCC did not go away. The Partnership for Assessment of Readiness for College and Careers (PARCC) is a multi-state consortium working to develop a common set of assessments that measure student growth and monitor progress on the way to post-secondary readiness based on Common Core standards. States had the option to adopt the corresponding test in 2013.

Although the state voted not to adopt PARCC in November 2015, districts had the option to administer either the original MCAS test or the PARCC exam to Gerd Ordelheide owns numerous properties throughout the Cohasset Harbor area and is ready to premiere some of his newest developments. The business owner said the new marketing plan he and his team recently established looks to spark a local interest in harbor-based businesses, especially his own, as the summer months fade into winter.

AP exam results analyzed

Students taking courses continue to improve

By Abigail Adams
aadam@wickedlocal.com

Scores for Cohasset's 2016-17 AP Exams continued to outpace both statewide and global statistics.

Last year, 136 AP students completed 226 exams, 117 of them scoring a 3 or higher. According to the College Board, a not-for-profit organization that looks to expand access to a higher education, success in an AP course is measured by scoring a 3 or higher on the exam, which they believe may be indicative of success in college.

Of the 136 students that completed one or more of the 14 AP courses taken at Cohasset High School during the 2016-17 school year, 37 students awards for their performance on AP exams throughout their high school careers. To achieve AP Scholar status, students must score a 3 or higher on three or more AP exams.

Last year, one student was honored as a National AP Scholar, which requires students to receive at least a 4 on all AP Exams taken and earn a 4 or higher on eight or more exams.

Cohasset Public Schools is one of the only districts in the state to allow students to enroll in an AP course without completing prerequisites to qualify. But that has not stopped students from successfully completing these courses, many of which perform to a high standard.

Assistant Superintendent Patrick Sullivan said the community should be proud of their success.

AP courses offered to students vary from year to year depending on student interest. This year, 14 different courses were offered at the high school, including five Virtual High School courses designed to expand a student's interest beyond their school's course offerings. Sullivan noted

Hatchback window smashed with pumpkin

By Mary Ford
mford@wickedlocal.com

Smashed window

An officer on patrol spotted a 2002 Subaru parked near 102 Beechwood St. with a smashed rear hatchback window last week. Police contacted the owner, a 28-year-old Cohasset man who did not hear anything suspicious.

The rear window was smashed with a pumpkin; there was broken glass and pumpkin parts on the rear seat, police said. Detectives took photos of the damage and processed the scene.

Unlicensed

At around 2:30 p.m. on Monday (Oct. 16), an officer pulled over a 2017 Chevrolet Tahoe for speeding. An officer clocked the SUV as traveling 47 in a 30 mph zone, police said. Further investigation revealed the 53-year-old Cohasset man who was driving had an expired license. A friend was able to come and take custody of the vehicle so it was not towed. The driver is being summoned to court on charges of unlicensed operation and speeding.

CHS flag stolen

A 53-year-old Cohasset man who lives on Jerusalem Road notified police on Monday evening (Oct. 16) that his blue and white "C" flag valued at $50 that had been flying off the porch was missing. He noticed it was missing around 6 a.m. on Sunday (Oct. 15); the last time he has seen it was on Saturday (Oct. 14) around lunchtime. There were no witnesses. If the perpetrator is located he or she could face the charge of larceny under $250, police said.

Deer struck

Around 7:50 p.m. on Tuesday (Oct. 17), a deer darted out on King Street near the Water Treatment Plant, hitting 2001 Toyota, being driven by a 75-year-old Cohasset woman, damaging the passenger side front fender and blinker light. The car was drive-able, police said. The woman was not injured and the deer was killed as a result of the accident.

Fell off ladder

A 62-year-old Kingston man, who was working for a paint contractor, on a house on Hemlock Way off Black Rock Road, fell off an aluminum extension ladder around 3:20 p.m. on Tuesday (Oct. 17) and landed on his back. Police said he was conscious and alert; he was evaluated by paramedics and transported to South Shore Hospital. OSHA was notified because it was a work-site accident. Detectives took photos of the scene.

Missing girl

Apparently the father of an 11-year-old middle school girl did not check his messages and thought he was supposed to pick his daughter up after school on Wednesday (Oct. 18). When he arrived, she was not there. Investigation revealed, the girl who had left her father a message, had gone home with a friend and the friend's mother and was located at their house, police said.

Paint-ball guns

Police were tied up on another call when a report came in that two teens had gone into Whitney Woods across from Stop & Shop with what looked like paint ball guns on Wednesday (Oct. 18) around 4:45 p.m. When police arrived and walked the path, there was no sign of the teens and no evidence of any paint ball activity.

No sign

Police were tied up on another call, when a report of teens possibly spray painting the building at Barnes Field off N. Main Street at 4:45 p.m. on Wednesday (Oct. 18). When police arrived there was no sign of the teens and no evidence of vandalism. Bathroom doors were open and police contacted the key holder to have them locked up.

Deer killed

Police received several calls about a dead deer at the Town Common that had been struck by a car. Because the location was highly visible, several calls came in between 6:45 and 10 a.m. on Thursday (Oct. 19). Police called the removal service contracted by the town that came and took the carcass away.

MV stop/arrest

An officer stopped a 21-year-old Dorchester woman for speeding (traveling 44 in a 30 mph zone) on Hull Street near Cedar Street at about 9:45 p.m. on Thursday (Oct. 19). The officer pulled over the gray 2010 Honda Accord and cited the woman for speeding and sent her on her way.

A few minutes later, the dispatch center notified the officer that a woman with the same name, date of birth and address but a different Mass. license number had an outstanding warrant out of Brockton District Court for the Abington police.

The officer caught up with the Honda on Route 228 near the Hingham Public Library and made the stop with assistance of Hingham police.

Arrested on the warrant for unlicensed operation was Danysha Perez-Pizarro of 7 Capen St. She had apparently not cleared up the paperwork from the prior case when she was issued her new Mass. license which had a different license number, police said.

Ride home

Police gave a 73-year-old Scituate woman a ride home from CVS at Tedeschi Plaza on Friday (Oct. 13) around 8:30 p.m. The woman had taken the RIDE to the pharmacy and had missed the pick up so police provided a courtesy transport.

Property dispute

Police told the homeowners involved in a property dispute on Linden Drive that the matter is a civil issue. They responded to a complaint at 10:55 p.m. on Saturday (Oct. 21) about the neighbor pulling out bushes that did not belong to him. The neighbor admitted to doing so, but said they were on his property.

Police were called back to the same home later about possible damage to the shed on the property. The alleged victim, however, could not say when it happened.

Police took photographs and filed a report of both incidents for the record.

Bikes missing

A 31-year-old Red Gate Lane man reported on Sunday (Oct. 22) at 9:21 a.m. that his $500 black Trek mountain bike and $30 child seat were missing. The bike had been left unsecured outside the house.

A 42-year-old Jerusalem Road man also reported on Sunday night (Oct. 22) that his $850 black Trek bike was missing and had been left unsecured around 3 p.m. on Friday (Oct. 13).

There were no witnesses or surveillance cameras at either location, police said.

10 YEARS OF LEADING THE SEAL
GOOD HOUSEKEEPING

By the time John Bates died in 1886, the days of the great sailing fleets were over, and Cohasset's two surviving wharves, Bates and Tower, lay idle. [COURTESY PHOTO]

In 1957, Barron's granddaughter Jesse Cox gave the building to the Cohasset Historical Society and it was moved to its current location, next to the Wilson House at the top of Elm Street. [COURTESY PHOTO]

Ghost of John Bates may still be around

Special to the Mariner

In the early 1750s, Samuel Bates built a ship chandlery on Border Street, across from Bates Wharf where the Olde Salt House is today.

The Bates family ships left here for ports all over the world, and by the mid 1800s the family had a large fleet of fishing schooners. The chandlery supplied all that was needed to outfit these vessels, and except for a short period of time, the business was passed down through the family.

The last owner was John Bates, known as merchant John, who was, by all accounts, a kind and generous man. From his desk on the second floor of the chandlery, he oversaw a thriving business, hauling in record amounts of mackerel and employing hundreds of men year round.

He lived in a grand house at the corner of North Main and Sohler streets and was considered a prominent figure in the town. Unfortunately, by the time John Bates died in 1886, the days of the great sailing fleets were over, and Cohasset's two surviving wharves, Bates and Tower, lay idle.

The Bates building and wharf were bought by Clarence Barron, owner of the property at 45 Margin Street known as "The Oaks." In 1957, Barron's granddaughter Jesse Cox gave the building to the Cohasset Historical Society and it was moved to its current location, next to the Wilson House at the top of Elm Street.

At the Society's annual meeting in 1962, during a talk given by Fran Hagerty about old sailing boats, odd noises were heard, up above, where John Bates' office had been, and where his desk was then located.

It was opened as a maritime museum with objects from the Society's collection, including John Bates' desk.

The museum was an instant success. At the Society's annual meeting in 1962, during a talk given by Fran Hagerty about old sailing boats, odd noises were heard, up above, where John Bates' office had been, and where his desk was then located.

It sounded as if someone was pacing with a heavy tread and that objects were being dragged across the floor. Somebody was up there, but how could they have come in? The Society's curator went upstairs and called out. No one was there. The lecture was interrupted two more times that evening by these strange sounds and then, the speaker gave up.

This "activity" continued, on a regular basis, over the next 10 years, and occasionally objects were rearranged or found on the floor as if they had been thrown. In one instance another curator told the ghost to stop making so much noise. She said that the footsteps ceased, briefly, but started up again. It seemed that the building had arrived on Elm Street with an unexpected guest, presumably John Bates.

Two years later, the Society asked Hans Holzer, well known ghost hunter and collector of ghost tales to conduct an investigation. Holzer arrived with a news reporter from CBS/WBZ and then television star Rex Trailer and his wife. They were joined by a reporter from the Boston Traveler.

Holzer tried talking to the ghost, addressing him as Mr. Bates and asking why he was not at peace. Holzer had no success. He then tried apologizing for the building being moved, but there was no response. If the ghost was indeed John Bates, he had every reason to be annoyed.

Even today, footsteps are occasionally heard, although the spirit is not as active as it had been. Relocating the building from the harbor to the center of town would have been upsetting for someone whose business was with the sea.

Today, thanks to Community Preservation funding, restoration of the building started in September. A few weeks ago, there was a short, violent electrical storm during which lightning took out the phone and alarm systems in the Wilson House and the Maritime Museum. It also struck the Society's headquarters in the Pratt building and set off the fire alarms.

John Bates may be back.

New artists and mural enhance Open Studio Tour

By Joan Kovach

The 2017 Cohasset Open Studio tour is adding a number of new venues, all within a conveniently small radius ranging from King Street to North and South Main streets. No need to travel to N.Y.C. or Boston for the art gallery experience the weekend of November 18-19. From 12 to 4 p.m. there will be plenty of work by artists we know and new ones right here.

Andrea Williams joins the list of artists welcoming us into her work-space. She'll be displaying both the paintings and jewelry she creates and the work of Peruvian visionary artist Carlos Olivera whose paintings, drawings and both large and small bronze steel and mixed media sculptures will be shown for the first time ever in this country.

Williams' work is a reflection of her reverence for nature and her gratitude for all the beauty and life giving resources that the universe provides. Her 365 South Main Street Studio called the Light and Power Company, is aptly named both because it once was Edison Electric Company and because Williams believes in the power of light (and art) in our spiritual journeys.

Williams also teaches yoga classes in the new space. She looks forward to the Open Studio Tour as a way to foster new connections with the community.

Sue O'Brien, whose paintings can be seen again this year at the library just "loves to paint. That much," she says, "I've learned about myself in the last decade." Retired from a 40-year career in retailing, she now pursues art full time.

O'Brien uses skills honed and improved in classes taught by wonderful teachers first at South Shore Art Center and then at North River Art Society whom she describes as "both knowledgeable and generous in their help to new, emerging artists."

Drawn to oil as a medium, especially when painted on panels, she loves color and all sorts of sea scenes, dune scenes and marsh scenes. She appreciates the gift of living on the South Shore where every day what she sees around her is different and calls for a different palette.

Jack Nash and his work — those gorgeous hand made wooden objects — will be at the library again this year. Nash loves wood. He graduated from Cohasset High School's Industrial Arts program where teachers Pat Plante and Tom Hughes nourished his love for working with that organic medium.

For 20 years Nash practiced his woodworking skills making cabinets, working to enhance local homes. As his insight and skills grew he began creating pieces of his own. Nash says he hopes folks on the tour, perhaps through conversations with artists, will gain both ideas of how an artist works and an understanding of what makes handmade work like his art, rather than simply a bowl to hold something.

Nash has expanded his artistic expression to include painting and this year will be the first his work in that medium will be on display as well. He has plans to share his own studio on the tour next year.

Artist may retire, but they continue to make art. Brian Doherty, who once taught art in public schools in Greenwich, Conn., Marshfield, Weymouth, and North Quincy, who founded the North River Art Society as part of his masters thesis at Mass School of Art, and who is a member and master artist of the Copley Society of Art, now resides at Sunrise Senior Living.

And thanks to Doherty, fellow artist and Sunrise resident, Mary Lou Clark, and three Cohasset High School students, the courtyard at Sunrise now has a glorious new mural. The seascape which includes Minot Light and a bit of Cohasset's rocky shoreline is visible from the walking path at the Sunrise.

An on-site reception at 125 King Street welcomes friends, families and all art tourists to view the mural and enjoy refreshments from 12 to 4 p.m. during the November 18-19 tour weekend.

Halloween: not your dog's favorite holiday

Heidi Zazza, owner of Heidi's Hounds next door in Hingham, points out that the National Retail Federation states that pumpkins and hot dogs are the top two pet Halloween costume choices this year.

"If you are planning to dress up Fido, plan ahead so wearing the costume isn't scary for him," Heidi says. "Introduce it to your pet slowly with plenty of treats and positive reinforcement. It's advisable to start this process at least a week before the costume will be worn."

"Be sure whatever costume you choose doesn't restrict your pet's movement, block vision or have parts that your pooch can easily chew off."

Heidi notes that some pets (including hers) find Halloween downright scary.

"Ringing door bells and spooky trick or treaters is cause for two very stressed out terriers in my home," she says. "Keeping pets that are fearful of this tradition away from the ghosts and goblins at your front door is in everyone's best interest."

"Put your frightened pets in a room with soothing music and favorite toys until all the ghosts and goblins are done for the evening."

If you're going out trick-or-treating with the kids, leave your dog at home. Dogs can be easily excited by the neighborhood Halloween commotion. A bite or a lost dog will quickly end your evening fun, she says.

KC Theisen, director of pet care issues for The Humane Society of the United States, also warns on the organization's website that "the things that make Halloween a treat for people — noises, smells, trick-or-treaters at the door and people in costumes — can overwhelm many pets."

And some elements of Halloween can be dangerous.

The Humane Society shares these tips:

* Before the trick-or-treating starts, put your pets in a quiet room where they will be safe from all the Halloween activity.

* Even if you are just having friends over for a Halloween party, keep your pets away from the festivities in their safe room. Masks and costumes change how people look and smell to a pet, so even familiar people may become frightening.

* When going out trick-or-treating, leave your dog at home. Dogs can be easily excited by the Halloween commotion, and a bite or a lost dog will quickly end the evening's fun.

The National Retail Federation also reports an estimated $350 million was spent on pet costumes last year, with a whopping 20 million consumers opting to dress up their pet. That number is expected to grow, with the NRF forecasting that 16 percent of Americans, or about 27.7 million people, will put their furry friend into a costume.

Heidi also says don't forget! "The candy bowl is full of potential toxins for Fluffy and Fido. Many foods, such as chocolate, gum and xylitol (a sweetener used in many foods), are hazardous to pets. Please keep these sweet treats out of reach!"

Local marijuana law concerns clarified

(Editor's note: Jim Borghesani read the Cohasset Mariner story "Myth-busting Massachusetts recreational pot laws" on wickedlocalcohasset.com and provided us the following as a clarification):

By Jim Borghesani

With the passage of the marijuana legalization ballot question last year and the subsequent revision by the Legislature, it is important for municipal officials to be accurately informed about what the law does and does not allow. Here are a few of the more prominent concerns from a municipal perspective.

First, the law does not allow public consumption of marijuana. The language is unambiguous: "No person shall consume marijuana in a public place or smoke marijuana where smoking tobacco is prohibited."

The first clause applies to all public places, such as streets, sidewalks, playgrounds, parks, beaches, recreation areas, etc. The second clause adds further restrictions, such as in restaurants, cafes, office buildings and anywhere else where tobacco is prohibited.

Towns can pass bylaws prohibiting public consumption if they wish, but these would be redundant. Again, state law already bans public consumption, just as it bans public consumption of alcohol.

Second, towns can determine the location of marijuana establishments. Many towns are considering moratoriums, with the explanation that forthcoming regulations from the Cannabis Control Commission will be helpful to towns as they consider their approach. This reasoning is flawed.

The CCC regulations are unlikely to advance municipal zoning authority beyond the law's current language, which is quite broad. Towns can determine the location of marijuana facilities, just as they determine, through zoning, the locations of other establishments selling controlled substances like alcohol and tobacco.

Lastly, towns can limit the number of marijuana facilities to 20 percent of existing package store licenses. So, if a town has ten package store licenses, selectmen on their own can cap marijuana facilities at two.

Numerous towns have enacted bans and moratoriums. Much of the reasoning I've seen is rooted in reefer madness hysteria from an earlier, hyperbolic age. I hope town officials and voters take a clear, temperate approach to this new opportunity to take market control away from criminals and shift it to regulated, taxed businesses that check IDs, create new jobs and return significant tax revenues to communities.

Jim Borghesani is communications director for the Yes on 4 Coalition. He is a Duxbury resident.

CPC vote on Town Hall project clarified

The following clarification was provided by Mary McGoldrick, chairman of THRAC (Town Hall Renovation Advisory Committee):

On Oct. 12, 2017, the Community Preservation Committee voted 5-1 to endorse the current proposal for the Town Hall renovation project.

The architectural firm of McGinley Kalsow & Associates estimates that of the $12.8 million cost for the project, $7,578,208 would be considered eligible for CPC funds.

At no time did the CPC vote to allocate that amount for the project. In the coming months a formal application will be drafted for the Town Hall Renovation Advisory Committee by the Town of Cohasset. At that time the CPC will decide how much they are interested in investing immediately to support the project, as well as how much CPA funding will be allotted each year.

DOWN BY THE SEASIDE

A bonfire on my cake

Michelle Martin Deininger

The New York Times Sunday magazine recently polled readers on whether they'd choose to live for 200 years in a young, healthy body with the mind of an "old" person. The question seemed weak—who would say no to that? But results rolled in, and 32 percent of respondents, that's who. And another 32 percent said maybe. Only 36 percent felt, as I did, that sticking around was a no-brainer. What?

The body's aging brings gravitational challenges, fatigue, illness, injury, flab, etc. The mind's aging, though, has brought mostly delight. Insight. Knowledge. A once-elusive peace. Okay yes, there's forgetfulness, an occasional inability to recall a name, word or fact.

But that isn't so bad. For example: recently I couldn't think of Voldemort's name so I called him "the snaky bad guy," and the house-shaking laughter has not yet subsided. It was a comic gift to the whole family.

But forgetfulness aside, the aged brain is better company and a stronger existential rudder than the young one. The wisdom gathered over decades of reading and listening to assorted geniuses can be life-altering, though it's a slow the process. If only our lives could be altered sooner!

For example, Maya Angelou wrote, "When someone shows you who they are, believe them the first time." Imagine the mistakes avoided, the time saved, by grasping that at a young age.

Paul McCartney advised people to "Let it be," and he was totally onto something, as it turns out. I wish that had sunk in during my first decade or so of singing along.

The notion of exploring the world with the energy of a youngster and the wisdom of an elder got me thinking about some ideal brains-and-beauty combinations. (Few and far between are those among us that manage to be born both gorgeous and enviably intellectually endowed...I'm looking at you, Amal Clooney, Michelle Obama and Sting.)

Imagine being Ruth Bader Ginsburg living in Maria Sharapova. Grand slam, indeed. Or what about the arts? I wouldn't mind being Toni Morrison trapped inside Olivia Culpo. Maybe I'd be male: Leonardo da Vinci calculating Tom Brady's passes (and eating his avocado ice cream). Or Albert Einstein catching those passes inside Edelman. Football is too rough, never mind. James Baldwin inside Idris Elba? Marie Curie or Katherine Johnson walking around as Gisele? The possibilities are many.

The time is ripe over here to reflect on the shift between young and old selves. Fifty years ago this month, the summer of love was wrapping up in San Francisco, Rolling Stone magazine was a few months old, the Supreme Court ruled that interracial marriage was fine, the recently released Sgt. Pepper album was blowing minds around the world, and my mom was two weeks overdue with me in Sacramento, California.

Fifty is quite a handle. A bonfire on my cake. There is no more pretending I'm not really, totally grown-up. There's a word for this condition: Middlescence, meaning "the middle-age period of life," or as I like to call it "a lot of football left." It's halftime, basically.

These zero-ending numbers can be overwhelming, unless you're one of those people who insists you pay no attention to birthdays and they don't faze you in the slightest (and you're not lying). If that's the case, kudos to you. It's an arbitrary construct, but new decades still give me pause.

Thirty wasn't too bad; I was engaged and therefore on the way to starting a family (although I didn't marry that guy, which led to belated turning-30 angst). Forty was tough because I thought Pete and I would be done having children, and we weren't. Fifty seems tough because I haven't sold my book yet.

But to mark milestones that way is to siphon some of the glory out of being alive, to narrow the focus to what is missing, rather than what is beautiful. Who needs that doom and gloom? Better to focus on the gifts of the everyday. We are so lucky to be here, getting older, getting wiser, loving, learning, laughing, sometimes suffering. That's something I'd explain to a youthful, worried me.

If current-age you could teach your younger self something, what would it be?

DRY DOCK

Be careful what you wish for: Louisa v. the birds

Louisa Kasdon

Last Spring, full of new found love for all things flying and feathered, I installed bird feeders at our house. I got a bird feeder, a shiny red humming bird feeder, and around the back of the house we hung a suet basket. Birds R us!

I'd delight in sitting on the porch with my little bird book identifying colorful newcomers, feeling complimented when they partook of my Wild Bird Seed with Fruits & Nuts as I do when people delight in my roast chicken. (I do make a delicious roast chicken.) And then came the squirrels. And the chipmunks. And the bossy blackbirds.

The chipmunks didn't really bother me. They look like mice wearing tuxedos. The chipmunks feasted on the leftovers on the ground. But the squirrels were a real problem. They'd jump up to the bird feeders and gobble the seed like bargain hunters at the all-you-can-eat breakfast buffet. Thirds on waffles!

We moved the bird feeder further away from porch, away from the trees and figured it a problem solved. But no. Athletically inclined squirrels could shimmy up the four feet of the wrought iron pole unassisted. And they scared the birds away. Even the bossy blackbirds.

In full moral outrage, I took myself back to the hardware store. There I saw bird seed guaranteed to keep squirrels away. Evidently squirrels don't have a taste for Siracha or hot pepper flakes. Clearly, others had the same problem with squirrels or there wouldn't be a market for bird seed with hot sauce.

I raced back, dumped out the last handfuls of wild bird seed with thistle and sunflower seed, tossed it on the ground to give the chipmunks a little boost, and filled the feeder to the brim with squirrel proof seed. And I waited.

I have no idea if the squirrels hated the bird seed or not. Somehow, I had turned off the wildlife spigot by filling the feeder with hot flakes. No birds. No squirrels, even the chipmunks were scarce. They all hated the hot flakes.

The seed sat in the fancy bird cage and it turned to mold. Maybe it had gotten wet. Maybe the seed I bought was past its "sell by" date. I dunno. I rinsed the feeder, and began again. Every once and a while a bird or two sauntered by for a peck, but the lovefest has clearly cooled. Our relationship was over and the birds were ghosting me.

Except for the woodpeckers. Once again, we had woodpecker besties. Which is funny because the whole bird thing began because we didn't know what to do about woodpeckers other than nail up a metal plate over the shingles they decimated. The woodpeckers were full blast on a new spot over the dining room window. A knowledgeable guy told us about "Woodpecker putty."

You fill up the holes with it and the woodpeckers take flight. I've been to six hardware stores in pursuit of said putty. Even an on-line search yielded nothing and if a google search can't find it who can? My husband, a tireless internet researcher, came up with another solution: make a spray of Tabasco sauce and water and spray it into the holes. Why not?

The only problem was while trying to get the spray nozzle adjusted I sprayed it into my own eye, (like pepper spray at a political rally). Back at the hardware store my bird sage told me to hang a suet basket right where the woodpeckers were pecking. Seems smart.

I bought a suet basket with compartment for four suet cakes, (whole hog here) and filled it with Woodpecker Energy. I did wonder whether that meant it gave the birds more energy to peck away at my house—or sated their need to peck away at my house. The new suet basket went up on Saturday. As of Sunday night, we were still waiting for the woodpeckers.

COMMENTARY

Home growing and public consumption of cannabis

(Editor's note: Peter C. Bernard read the Cohasset Mariner story "Myth-busting Massachusetts recreational pot laws" on wickedlocalcohasset.com and provided us the following as a clarification):

By Peter C. Bernard

In my travels and conversations with people across the Commonwealth, I often find there is confusion on the laws around public consumption and home growing. Information on this can be conflicting and sometimes confusing. Even town governments sometimes get conflicting information when forming ballot questions proposing bans.

So what exactly are the rules on home growing and public consumption? Let me make one thing perfectly clear. Towns cannot ban personal use or home cultivation. There are no ifs ands or buts about that part.

On home cultivation, let's look at 94G, section 13 (a):

"Restrictions on personal cultivation. No person shall cultivate or process marijuana...if the plants are visible from a public place without the use of binoculars, aircraft or other optical aids or cultivate or process marijuana plants outside of an area that is equipped with a lock or other security device..."

What does this mean? Inside your home, you can grow with no problems. Outdoors, there are certain conditions you have to meet. It has to be secured by a lock or other security device and outside of public view. A greenhouse or garage that can be locked, with opaque walls, meets that criteria. You cannot see the cannabis, even if you can see the greenhouse or garage.

Law enforcement is not allowed to use binoculars, aircraft or other optical aids to call your grow "public view." If they cannot see it from the road or a public spot adjacent to your property, you are OK.

Public consumption law is something that can be confusing. A town ban on public consumption is redundant.

Let's look at 94G, Section 13(c):

"Restrictions on public consumption of marijuana. No person shall consume marijuana in a public place or smoke marijuana where smoking tobacco is prohibited. A person who violates this subsection shall be punished by a civil penalty of not more than $100. This subsection shall not apply to a person who consumes marijuana or marijuana products in a designated area of a marijuana establishment located in a city or town that has voted to allow consumption on the premises where sold and shall not be construed to limit the medical use of marijuana."

Consuming in public means you are not on private property. If you are in the parking lot at your favorite eatery, are you on public property? No. Is tobacco smoking usually allowed in a parking lot? Yes. Does the owner of said eatery reserve the right to call the cops and have you removed if you break out a doobie out there? You bet your bippy. Just because you legally can do something does not mean that you should. Common sense prevails. If you toke, respect your environment and those around you.

If you are in your front yard, blaze away. Once you step onto the sidewalk you are consuming in public. Putting this as a question on a town ballot is ignorant because it is clear that the law has not been read, and it is biased because it invokes fear in prohibitionists that hippies will be roaming the streets in skunky clouds of smoke. For a question like this to show up on a ballot, without pure ignorance of the law, is reprehensible and a manipulation of the constituency.

Society in general still has some learning to do. Stigma is still high. Prohibitionist fears are even higher now that it is legal. Education is the answer to sensible and responsible laws and regulations around cannabis. Ignorance perpetuates the problems.

LIFE AT CHS

Breast cancer awareness was our focus

Kate Quigley

As many of you may know October is national breast cancer awareness month and to show support for the all people that this disease has affected, under the CHS InterACT club's initiative, the students at CHS spent the week donating to the Ellie Fund. The Ellie Fund is a non-profit that provides essential support services to those battling breast cancer to ease daily stresses and allow patients and families to focus on recovery and support.

On Wednesday student council rallied support as well getting all of CHS to wear pink this past Wednesday. The InterACT club is a group of students who work with the community and to raise money for those in need, such as hurricane victims.

The cheerleading squad participated in their second competition this weekend in Ipswich. The competition was the annual Cheer for the Cure competition where a portion of all proceeds were donated to breast cancer research and non-profits similar to the Ellie Fund. The squad has consistently shown their support throughout the month of October by switching out their regular silver bows with pink ones, a portion of the money spent on bows was also donated to breast cancer research and support services.

The CHS cheer squad, though graduated many talented seniors last year, has enjoyed a successful season thus far and will have their third competition this Saturday at Braintree High School. Although cheer competitions are one of the most fun and energizing sporting events to attend, at Cohasset High School very few students and residents attend the meets. Some of the members of the squad mentioned that every town's football players attend their competitions to support the cheerleaders, however the Cohasset football team has yet to attend a meet this season.

This week marks the end of the regular season for most sports at CHS, of the team sports at CHS boys' soccer, girls' soccer, and field hockey have qualified for the state tournament this season. Both boys' soccer and field hockey made the Boston Globe's top 20 teams lists this week for their respective sports.

On Monday girls' soccer beat out Abington 3-2. The team came out hard after a first half time-out, junior Maeve Humphrey scored two goals to bring the team back from their two goal deficit to tie the game. With about 8 minutes left in the second half, sophomore Taylor Herndon scored her first, and hard earned goal to win the game and keep the team's spirits high in their last league game of the season before tournament play.

CHS GS has they last regular season game this Friday for senior night against the always competitive Silver-Lake, kick-off begins at 6 p.m. at CHS.

Last week the cross-country team enjoyed success, specifically two juniors on the team. Ian Turpel beat the school record for a meet with the time 16:13 and Elise Wimberly beat her own personal record this season with 18:58 in a meet against East Bridgewater.

Many of the members of boys' golf have qualified for sectional tournament play, such as seniors Jack Fechter and Tommy Carrabes, juniors Brad Albanese and Michael Hill and, sophomores Shane Murphy and Connor Kenealy. Fechter, Carrabes, Hill and senior TJ Coffey have qualified to compete in the league.

Despite the rainy weather this week, CHS was anything but gloomy with the majority of senior night games occurring this week, the French exchange students joining us in school for a day of classes Thursday, and spending the week raising money and awareness for breast cancer and the Ellie Fund.

MCAS

students in order to prepare them for "MCAS 2.0" which combined the two exams. According to the Massachusetts Department of Education, 72 percent of students grades 3 through 8 completed the PARCC exam that year.

'Next-generation' vs. 'Legacy' MCAS tests

With so many buzz words floating around, it is hard for some families to understand the difference between the original MCAS test and the new one, which has been dubbed MCAS 2.0.

The "next-generation" MCAS test, otherwise known as MCAS 2.0, meshes both the original MCAS test with the PARCC exam to create a hybrid that will set new standards of proficiency for Massachusetts students. According to the state Department of Education, the new test is designed to be more difficult than the original, with a greater emphasis on critical thinking and the application of knowledge when reading and writing.

The "legacy" test is the original MCAS exam that was distributed beginning in 1998.

Similar to the legacy MCAS test, scoring for the next-generation MCAS test is divided up into four categories: Exceeding Expectations, Meeting Expectations, Partially Meeting Expectations, and Not Meeting Expectations. Scoring within the top two categories, however, will now prove more difficult than ever, much the dismay of students and parents across the state.

School officials warn families not to compare this year's next-generation scores with legacy scores from years past as scoring between the two is not equivalent. The legacy MCAS is scored on a scale of 200-280 while the next-generation test uses a much broader scale of 440 to 560.

This year, the legacy MCAS was only distributed to grade 10 students. Science was also tested through the legacy MCAS in grades 5 and 8.

How does Cohasset measure up?

Despite scores appearing lower than normal, Cohasset still ranks above average in comparison to the results statewide.

According to the new scoring system, 76 percent of grade 5 students in Cohasset met expectations on the English exam, compared to only 49 percent statewide. Likewise, 83 percent of grade 8 students met expectations on their English exam while only 49 percent of students did so statewide.

Grade 8 students also scored above average in math, with 66 percent of students meeting expectations.

Statewide, only 48 percent of grade 8 students met expectations on the test.

Those unfamiliar with the scoring, however, may find the number of students only partially meeting expectations to be particularly high. In grade 5 math, for instance, 40 percent of students in Cohasset partially met expectations on the Math exam, similar to the 42 percent of grade 5 students across the state.

Overall, roughly half of the students tested statewide fully met expectations for both the English and Math exams. School officials said they are aware that these numbers may appear concerning as many students are accustomed to scoring in the "advanced" or "proficient" categories on the legacy MCAS test, although they are not equivalent to "exceeds expectations" and "meets expectations" on the next-generation test.

What comes next?

Before the community can have a conversation on the issue, families must have a chance to absorb the new results. While there is no date set for scores to be sent home, Superintendent Louise Demas anticipates families will receive their scores in early November.

A question and answer sheet about the new results and an explanation of the new system will accompany the scores sent home for families to digest.

Additionally, Sullivan will conduct a presentation on the district's MCAS results after scores are sent home to families for their review. Demas said it is best for scores to go home and for families "to ingest it a bit" before giving the presentation.

Until then, Cohasset school officials urge families not to be alarmed by the results and are asked for patience as the district looks to clarify the issue.

The next-generation MCAS test will be introduced at the high school level in 2019.

ALSO UP ON BEACON HILL

LGBT SENIORS (S 346) - A bill being considered by the Elder Affairs Committee would require the Department of Elder Affairs to develop a curriculum and training program on the prevention and elimination of discrimination based on sexual orientation, gender identity and expression.

The proposal is designed to improve access to services for lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender elders and caregivers. The training program must be completed by all services providers who contract with or receive funding from the Elder Affairs Department.

CHILD CARE FOR CANDIDATES (S 386) - The Elder Affairs Committee's agenda also includes a bill amending a current law that prohibits the use of campaign funds by a candidate for personal use. The bill would allow a campaign to pay for childcare services for a candidate while the candidate is performing work or attending events directly related to his or her campaign.

ALLOW NON-CITIZENS TO VOTE (H 388) - Legislation before the Election Laws Committee would permit cities and towns to allow non-citizens over age 18 to vote in local municipal elections.

These non-citizens would be eligible only if they certify in writing that they live in the city or town and "intend in good faith to become a U.S. citizen and intend to begin that process, if eligible." Communities could adopt this law if it is approved by the local governing body and by the voters on a local ballot question.

INSTANT RUNOFF ELECTIONS (S 380) - The Election Laws Committee's agenda also includes legislation allowing cities and towns to use a "ranked choice voting" (RCV) system for their local city or town elections. RCV is designed to ensure the election of candidates that receive an absolute majority, rather than a simple plurality.

All candidates on the ballot are ranked by voters in order of their preference. If no candidate receives a majority of first choice votes, the candidate that received the least number of first choice votes is eliminated. The second choice of the voters who supported the eliminated candidate now becomes their first choice and is added to the totals of the remaining candidates. The same process is repeated, if necessary, until a candidate is the first choice of a majority of voters.

Supporters say the system would prevent candidates in a crowded election field from being elected with less than 50 percent of the vote. They also argue that it prevents "spoiler" candidates from tipping an election and allows people to vote for their favorite candidate without fear of helping to elect their least favorite candidate.

Opponents say that RCV is confusing and does nothing to truly reform an election process that is controlled by fundraising and money.

GENITAL MUTILATION, UNIVERSAL SIGNS ON PUBLIC BATHROOMS AND OVERWEIGHT DISCRIMINATION - The Judiciary Committee held a hearing on several bills including:

FEMALE GENITAL MUTILATION (S 788) - Makes it a crime to perform female genital mutilation.

Supporters say that 6,000 women and girls around the world are subjected to genital mutilation annually and that 135 million have been the victims of this barbaric act.

They note that the procedure has no health benefits for women and girls and in fact can cause all kinds of health problems including bleeding, urinary problems and complications in childbirth sometimes leading to the death of the child.

BAN DISCRIMINATION BASED ON HEIGHT AND WEIGHT (H 952) - Prohibits discrimination on the basis of a person's height or weight.

Supporters say that overweight people are often not hired or promoted because of their weight and note this type of discrimination is on the rise and is more acceptable and pervasive than race, gender or sexual orientation discrimination.

They argue that often people are unaware they are being discriminated against until after they lose weight and are suddenly promoted. They note that weight discrimination stems from the myth that obesity is a character flaw.

UNIVERSAL SIGNS ON PUBLIC BATHROOMS (H 3046) - Requires all public restrooms to post universally understandable restroom signs to ensure that a person with a disability or limited language proficiency has full and equal access to the restrooms. Violators would be fined up to $300 per offense.

HOW LONG WAS LAST WEEK'S SESSION? Beacon Hill Roll Call tracks the length of time that the House and Senate were in session each week. Many legislators say that legislative sessions are only one aspect of the Legislature's job and that a lot of important work is done outside of the House and Senate chambers. They note that their jobs also involve committee work, research, constituent work and other matters that are important to their districts. Critics say that the Legislature does not meet regularly or long enough to debate and vote in public view on the thousands of pieces of legislation that have been filed. They note that the infrequency and brief length of sessions are misguided and lead to irresponsible late-night sessions and a mad rush to act on dozens of bills in the days immediately preceding the end of an annual session.

During the week of October 16-20, the House met for a total of 36 minutes and the Senate met for a total of seven hours and three minutes.

Cohasset students earn AP Awards

By Abigail Adams
aadam@wickedlocal.com

The AP Exams are considered some of the most rigorous tests distributed to students each school year. From English Language and Composition to Human Geography, 136 Cohasset students completed 226 AP exams in the 2016-17 school year across 14 different courses.

Of those students, 37 of them scored well enough to be deemed AP scholars, which are determined based on how well a student scores on their AP Exams throughout their high school career. The students and awards are divided into four different categories of success:

EXAM

that while VHS curricula cannot be manipulated by the administration, the program is still a great opportunity for students to explore courses offered outside of CHS.

AP Exam scores in Cohasset tend remain the same, if not fluctuate slightly, from year to year. According to School Committee Chair Jeanne Astino, Cohasset students continue to improve while state and global averages on AP Exams remain static, a positive indicator for the district.

Much to the surprise of some administrators, students in Cohasset have scored particularly well historically on the Macroeconomics test, with 22 out of 44 students earning a 5 on this year's exam. Over the last five years, students in Cohasset who have taken the Macroeconomics test have averaged a score of 4.5 out of 5 points.

While Cohasset's scores are considered impressive, some numbers are not as high as years past. Students' average scores on the Calculus AB exam, for instance, have dropped from 4.64 in 2013 to 3.19 in 2017. Average scores for the U.S. History course have dropped from 4.79 in 2014 to 3.89 in 2017.

In some cases, the number of 5's received on these exams has also gone down. On the Calculus AB exam, only one student scored a 5 in 2017 compared to nine 5's received in 2013. The number of 5's received on the U.S. History test was also down, from 17 in 2013 to seven in 2017. The number of 4's scored on the U.S. History test, however, jumped from seven in 2013 to 12 in 2017.

Often times, lower scores have proven circumstantial. Students completing AP European History, however, are typically sophomores tackling a college-level course for the first time, sometimes resulting in lower scores than desired. Although their results were not included in the analysis, Sullivan said scores on AP VHS Exams also tend to be lower than scores for courses taught in person. Superintendent Louise Demas attributed the variety of VHS scores to the amount of effort students are willing to put into the course.

Despite these numbers, Cohasset still ranks above average in comparison to state and global averages. 86 percent of Cohasset students scored a 3 or higher on their exams in 2016-17, compared to 69.6 percent statewide and 60.3 percent globally.

Cohasset Public Schools are taking a number of steps to help continue to improve upon their already impressive AP Exam scores. An online tool for AP teachers known as a "Professional Learning Community" was created by CHS Principal Carolyn Connolly and her team to provide them with the ability to collaborate. Additionally, Cohasset will be looking to partner with other schools in the area to establish a network of AP teachers with a similar set of concerns on top of training more teachers to cover AP subject matter.

In the meantime, instruction and curricula for Cohasset's AP courses will be adjusted as needed based on the results from years past. Connolly said what matters most is what students get out of the courses themselves.

"It is less about performance than about what is learned in the course," said Connolly.

Ordelheide: Seawall may not be my responsibility

By Abigail Adams
aadam@wickedlocal.com

Olde Salt House owner Gerd Ordelheide is responding to criticism of his management of the seawall collapse from earlier this summer, saying the collapse may not be his responsibility.

Ordelheide, who acquired the property in Aug. 2016, said structural damage to the wall was noticeable at the time of the purchase. The business owner said he and General Manager Joe LaSpada contacted an engineer prior to the collapse to determine the structural integrity of the seawall out of concern.

Ordelheide said he received mixed advice from a number of engineers in terms of how to proceed with stabilization. Some engineers told him the previous owner of the property, Peter Roy, had made a series of temporary fixes to stabilize the wall but never made any sort of permanent fix.

Ordelheide said the issue has likely progressed over the last 20 years. The wall collapsed on June 28.

But Ordelheide blames more than just poor maintenance of the property for the collapse. In a conversation with an engineer from Anderson Structural Engineering, Ordelheide was told dredging done in the harbor prior to him owning the restaurant could likely have exacerbated any existing structural deficiencies. Now, Ordelheide wants to determine whether the depleted seawall is indeed his responsibility or not.

"I'm not an engineer, but I have to look at this because you are now looking at a substantial investment," said Ordelheide.

Should the seawall be his,

Ordelheide said he would be willing to speak with the Conservation Commission about what they would like to see done with the seawall. In the meantime, Ordelheide is attempting to contact his lawyer directly to help him determine his responsibility in the matter.

"I'm just saying let's be reasonable here," said Ordelheide.

Green options explored for Town Hall renovation project

By Abigail Adams
aadam@wickedlocal.com

Alternative energy options for the Town Hall remodel were raised recently as the Town Hall Renovation Advisory Committee continues to meet with Cohasset committees ahead of the Special Town Meeting in December.

THRAC presented their proposal at the Alternative Energy Committee meeting Monday (Oct. 23) where the potential for energy efficiencies for the renovated building was discussed at length. THRAC Chair Mary McGoldrick said an energy efficient building would benefit the town and future generations.

Among some of the concepts discussed was the potential utilization of geothermal energy as well as the need to have the building Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) certified.

Geothermal energy, heat energy generated by the Earth, is both clean and sustainable. The heat generated by hot water reservoirs underground is transferred through a series of pipes known as a "loop" before the heat can be drawn and sent throughout the building through air ducts. Should the town pursue the geothermal option, architects on the project would forgo the original plan to install an HVAC system similar to that of the current building, powered by two gas boilers and a 55-ton chiller.

While this form of heating and cooling could save the town energy, AEC and THRAC member Josiah Stevenson said it does not come without some potential roadblocks.

While he has not experienced the issue first hand, Stevenson said clogging in the pipes can become an issue, but said it should not be cause for major concern. Stevenson also noted that installing the piping necessary for geothermal energy into the building would require digging, something some people may be opposed to doing on or around the Town Common.

Seeking a LEED certification was also discussed as a potential option for the project. The four potential ratings - certified, silver, gold and platinum - cover a range of "prerequisites" a building must meet to qualify for certification. Under modern building codes, Stevenson said achieving Silver status is easier now than ever, and asked if seeking official certification would be worth spending the extra money. McGoldrick said a lot can be done to make the building energy efficient without spending the extra cash.

Capital Budget Committee member Brian Host, however, argued that spending more money on certain aspects of the project could benefit the town in long-term cost savings. Host said coupling that with a high-performance building envelope, which would feature "a continuous layer of uninterrupted insulation," could save the town a considerable chunk of change.

According to Host, a number of incentives and rebates available from both the Massachusetts Clean Energy Center and the MassSave program could potentially cover the majority of the cost of installing the roughly $300,000 geothermal system. Host said the system would also likely last longer than the 25-year life span of a typical HVAC system.

The AEC was largely receptive of the proposal to remodel the Town Hall. AEC Chair Mary Jo Larson said she enjoyed the modern appeal of the current design and encouraged THRAC to continue communications with the AEC as the project progresses.

No concrete plans for energy use were agreed upon at the meeting although the committees have agreed to pursue the options discussed in the future.

THRAC is set to meet with the Board of Selectmen again on Tuesday, Nov. 14 for one final update before Special Town Meeting on Monday Dec. 4 where the group will seek $1,050,000 for design development, specifications, and the bidding process.

Bakery at Red Lion

The Bakery at The Red Lion Inn at 71 South Main Street is back and open for business. The business originally closed several years ago under a former owner, but reopened under Ordelheide to not only accommodate guests that stay for weddings at both the Red Lion and the Cohasset Harbor Inn at 124 Elm Street, but for the benefit of the general public as well.

"It's for the locals to enjoy. It's for the public," said Ordelheide.

The cozy little breakfast nook facing South Main Street serves a variety of breakfast options including delectable pastries, freshly-brewed coffee, and other mouth-watering treats Ordelheide believes customers will enjoy as an early morning

Hugo's Lighthouse

Starting Jan. 1, 2018, Atlantica will revert back to its original name, Hugo's Lighthouse. Ordelheide said he received numerous requests from locals and visitors alike as many across the eastern seaboard remember the venue by its former name.

Since several wedding parties that booked the venue had already sent out invitations labeling the property as "Atlantica," Ordelheide felt compelled to wait until the new year to make the official change.

In addition to adopting the business' original name, Hugo's Lighthouse will also feature its original menu which will include a variety of seafood options, cocktails, and Hugo's Original Shore Dinner consisting of clam chowder, steamed clams, and ocean-fresh lobster. The restaurant will host a "high-end" party on New Year's Eve to celebrate.

Holiday happenings

In addition to the New Year's Eve party, Ordelheide said has other plans to mark the holiday season. For Thanksgiving, menus at all three restaurants - the Red Lion Inn, Atlantica, and the Olde Salt House - will be revised and shortened as the holiday tends to draw in a considerable crowd each year, according to Ordelheide.

The Red Lion Inn will also host a Halloween party for both children and adults alike to celebrate the haunted holiday. Ordelheide said the business will set up a haunted house where guests will be encouraged to get into the Halloween spirit. Children and families will be invited to celebrate in the afternoon before the party switches over to a more mature vibe in the evening.

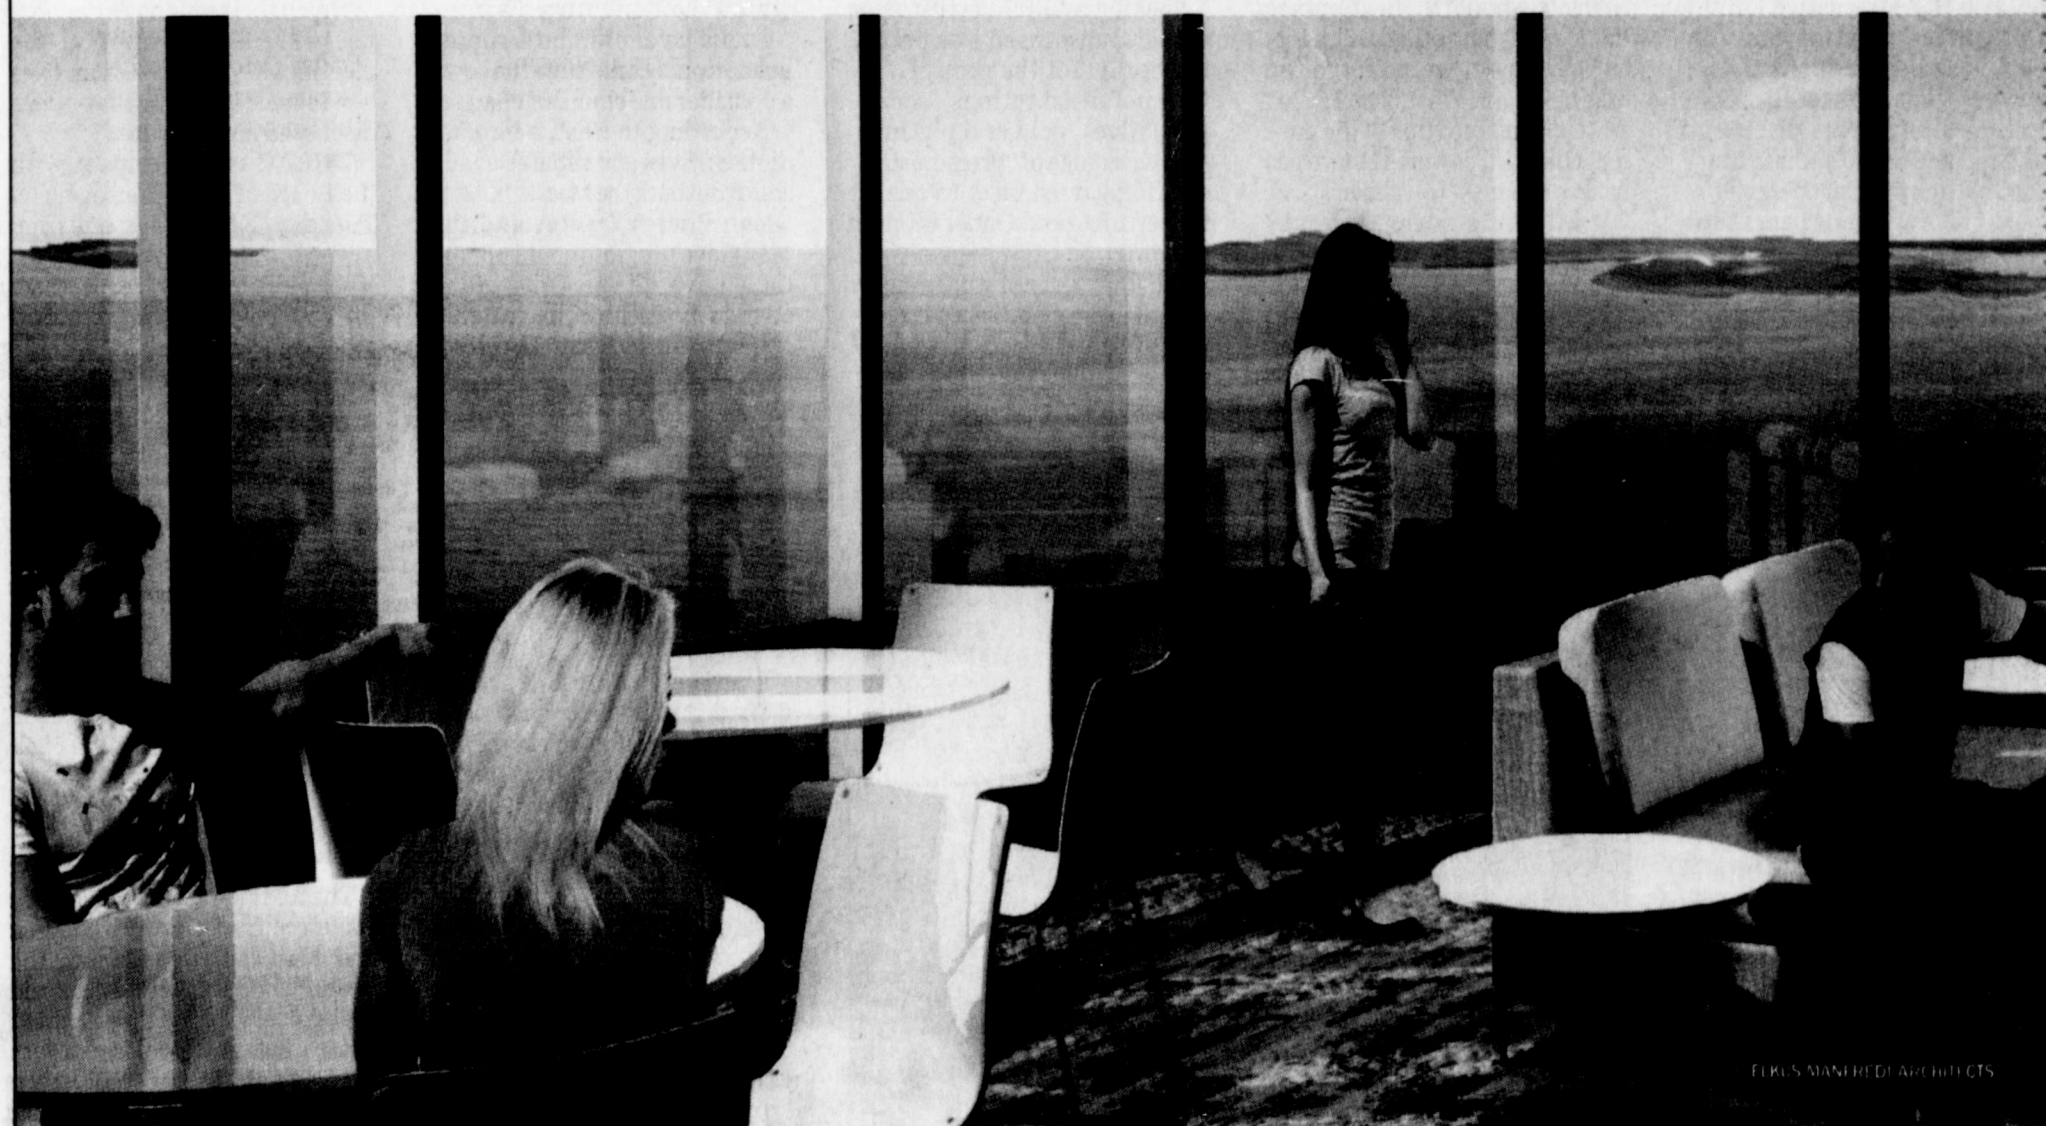

"The Red Lion was always a haunted house," said Ordelheide, "and we wanted to do a Halloween party here to celebrate."

The Halloween party will be held at the Red Lion Inn on Friday, Oct. 28.

Football routs Carver, prepares for Ashland

By William Wassersug
wwassersug@wickedlocal.com

All season long, the Cohasset football team has been giving everything it had in practice and games, but in the end, the results on the field didn't always manifest.

Friday Oct. 20, everything came together for the Skippers as quarterback Matt Lund ran for a score and was 11 of 12 passing for 155 yards and two touchdowns Friday night as the Skippers beat Carver 46-6.

The Skippers are 3-4 overall, 2-2 in the South Shore League Tobin Division. The Crusaders dropped to 2-5, 0-4.

Will Thomas had three catches for 110 yards and a TD for Cohasset, which jumped out to a 16-0 lead in the first quarter and never looked back.

"The kids played well," Cohasset coach Pete Afanasiw said. "It's been an up and down season. Even in good games the kids never give up whether they're up or down. Games like Friday are nice. They work so hard in practice that it's good to see it come out on game night. The last few weeks the guys have come around."

Thomas set the tone early with a 50-yard catch from Lund on the first play from scrimmage.

"The first play was a pass to Will," Afanasiw said. "It was a nice play, a counter pass. Matt hit him in stride. Once he gets rolling he's hard to stop. On our second possession he took one 77-yards."

On the other side of the ball, Afanasiw said the defense came up huge.

Golfers third at Sectionals, Jack Fechter qualifies for States

By William Wassersug
wwassersug@wickedlocal.com

The Cohasset golf squad was outstanding Tuesday (Oct. 24) in some very challenging windy conditions at the Division 3 South Sectional Tournament, and while they just missed the cut to qualify for the upcoming State Tournament, one individual performance stood out as senior Jack Fechter qualified for the fourth straight year shooting an 80.

"This is the fourth straight season that Jack has qualified for the State Tournament, a feat never before accomplished by a Cohasset golfer," Cohasset coach Torin Sweeney said. "Jack and I will travel west to Great Barrington next Monday for the states."

The Skippers placed third in the ten-team field.

Dover-Sherborn scored 327, Archbishop Williams was second with a 333 and Cohasset finished third with a 337 score.

Wicked Local Week 8 Football Power Rankings

By Chris McDaniel

CMcDaniel@wickedlocal.com

Part of the fun of the playoffs is seeing teams match up against opponents with little to no familiarity.

That won't be the case in the first week of this year's playoffs.

Norwell lost its first game of the season to East Bridgewater on Friday night at home. The result of that game is a rematch at home in the quarterfinals in the Division 6 South Sectional quarterfinals.

The Division 6 South Sectional features four South Shore League Sullivan Division teams (Norwell, EB, Middleboro at Rockland).

The Clippers won't be the only team with a rematch on their mind.

Hingham lost to Duxbury, 14-13, on Saturday with the Patriot League Keenan Division title on the line.

If the Harbormen and Dragons win their quarterfinal games, Hingham will be at Duxbury in the Division 3 South Sectional quarterfinals.

Marshfield will face a familiar opponent in Mansfield. The teams will be meeting in the postseason for the fourth consecutive year.

Record and last week's ranking in parenthesis.

1. Scituate (6-1, 2) - Last week was a pretty good one for the Sailors. It was announced that Scituate and Hingham would play their Thanksgiving game at Fenway Park on Thursday. On Saturday, the Sailors rolled to their first Patriot League Fisher Division title since 2013. The Division 5 South Sectionals will be one of the toughest in the state.

2. Rockland (5-2, 6) - Very few people, if any, picked Rockland and Norwell to finish atop the South Shore League Sullivan Division, but this season has been a testament to coaches Nick Liquori (Rockland) and Jim Connor (Norwell). Liquori's Bulldogs are making game-changing plays on a weekly basis. Rockland's defense has been one of the best around, allowing only two teams to score more than a touchdown before garbage time.

3. Norwell (6-1, 1) - The Clippers have the rare opportunity to play the same opponent in consecutive weeks. Although Norwell may be happy for a second shot at the defending state champion Vikings, EB has had the Clippers' number in recent years. Norwell has lost to the Vikings nine consecutive times, including twice last year, once in the season finale with the league title on the line and another time in the sectional final.

4. Braintree (5-2, 7) - The Wamps are peaking at the right time. Braintree has outscored its last three opponents 85-7 and clinched the Bay State Carey Division title with a 34-7 win over Weymouth on Friday. A road trip to Bridgewater-Raynham in the quarterfinals of the Division 2 South Sectionals will be no easy task.

5. Hingham (5-2, 3) - The Harbormen had their hearts ripped out in a 14-13 loss to Duxbury on Saturday with the Patriot League Keenan Division title on the line on Saturday. How Hingham responds will reveal a lot about this year's team. The Dragons and Harbormen will likely meet next week in an even bigger game than Saturday's.

6. Marshfield (4-2, 4) - The Rams have had two weeks to sit and stew following a rare blow-out loss to Dennis-Yarmouth on Oct. 13. In the quarterfinals of the Division 2 South Sectionals, Marshfield will meet up with Mansfield in the playoffs for the fourth consecutive year. The Rams have won all three games (42-14 in 2014, 22-0 in 2015, 41-35 in 2016).

7. Abington (4-3, 5) - The Green Wave played Mashpee as tough as anyone has all season in a 49-27 loss on Friday. Abington lead 21-14 in the second quarter before the Falcons answered with 35 consecutive points. The Green Wave have won at least one playoff game in each of the past five seasons.

On the bubble: Silver Lake (4-3), Hanover (3-3), Pembroke (2-5)

Players of the week
Robert Gomes, Sr., Plymouth North: The running back exploded for five touchdowns and 235 yards in a 56-26 win over Quincy.

Emma Sampson, Jr., Plymouth South: Sampson booted a field goal with no time left to lift the Panthers to an 18-16 win over Pembroke.

Abel Lopes Jr., Sr., Scituate: The receiver hauled in five passes for 126 yards and three touchdowns and returned an interception for a 67-yard touchdown in a 35-14 win over North Quincy on Saturday. He also returned a punt for 53 yards.

Billy Silvia, Jr., Braintree: Silvia scored three touchdowns, all in the third quarter, and forced two turnovers in a 34-7 win over Weymouth on Friday.

Jon Baar, Sr., Rockland: Baar intercepted three passes, including one he returned 100 yards for a score, in a 20-8 win over Middleboro on Friday. He also hauled in a touchdown from sophomore quarterback Dante Vasquez.

Matt Lund, Jr., Cohasset: The quarter was 11 of 12 passing for 155 yards and two touchdowns in Friday's 46-6 win over Carver. Lund's favorite target was Will Thomas, who had three catches for 110 yards and a touchdown.

Playoff schedule (seeds in parenthesis)

Games of the week
Friday, Oct. 27: Cardinal Spellman (No. 6 seed, 5-2) at Rockland (No. 3 seed, 5-2), 7 p.m. - Rockland and Cardinal Spellman High Schools are a 15-minute drive apart. Despite that close proximity and being in the same sectional, the Cardinals and Bulldogs have zero common opponents. In their last meeting, Cardinal Spellman defeated Rockland, 32-22, in the quarterfinals of the 2014 Division 5 South Sectionals. The Cardinals were the No. 6 seed in that one while the Bulldogs were No. 3.

Football Power Rankings are decided with the help of several factors: record, strength of schedule, performance against teams and margin of victory. The public schools in our coverage area include: Abington, Braintree, Carver, Cohasset, Hanover, Hingham, Marshfield, Norwell, Pembroke, Plymouth North, Plymouth South, Rockland, Scituate, Silver Lake and Weymouth. Send nominations for players of the week to cmcdaniel@wickedlocal.com or reach on Twitter @ChrisMcDaniel88.

"Defensively, so many kids played well," he said. "Cal Osten and Jackson Fitzgerald did a great job. Cal was at outside linebacker and Jackson was at defensive end. Their physical presence and athleticism was big in containing their run game. Cal also had an interception.

The Skippers picked up the victory, but when the playoff rankings came out, they came up just short of picking up a playoff spot as Diman (4-2) edged the Skippers for the final spot.

According to Afanasiew, the playoffs came down to the wire.

"We made our own bed and have to lie in it," he said. "We should have beat Abington and took Mashpee to the wire. That's just the nature of sports. We were in the same situation last year and made it. Cal was asking why we made it last year and not this year. I told him that we needed a couple of teams to lose. If Archbishop Williams had lost, we'd be in. It didn't happen this time."

The season is far from over though.

While Cohasset won't be in the playoffs, the season continues with a game at Ashland Friday night.

Ashland comes into the game with a 3-4 record and similar numbers to the Skippers. Ashland has scored 151 points and allowed 110 this season, while Cohasset has scored 156 and allowed 103.

The Clockers wins over Seekonk (34-0), Bellingham (26-0) and Dedham (22-20), with losses to Medfield (43-36), Dover-Sherborn (10-6), Medway (16-14) and Millis (21-13).

"I'm feeling pretty good about it," Afanasiew said about playing Ashland. "Some coaches are more concerned. They're a Division 6 team, but they're no bigger or faster than New Bedford or Abington. They look good on film. They have a good athletic quarterback. He throws well and runs well. We'll strap it on and play. The biggest concern I have is the two-hour bus ride in traffic on a Friday afternoon. I hope it doesn't drain the kids and it takes them a half to get into it. If we show up and play the way we've been playing, we'll be fine. They're a 3-4 team, we're 3-4. From a spectators perspective it should be a lot of fun."

Kickoff is 7 p.m.

GOLF

Six golfers per team played and the top four scores tallied. The top two teams move on to the state tournament.

Cohasset scores were Fechter 80, Mity Hill 85, Bradley Albanese 86, Shane Murphy 86, Conor Kenealy 90 and Tommy Carrabas 95.

While the top four scores were the ones that counted, Sweeney said his squad performed extremely well one-through-six.

"We compiled the most consistent scores of all the teams and all six players," he said. "We actually had the best score if all six scores were tallied."

Along with Fechter playing at States, there is still golf to play.

"Next Thursday (Nov. 2) we will finish the season with the League Tournament," Sweeney said. "Our seniors (Fechter, Carrabas and Coffey) will finish their high school golf career with this fun event. Mity Hill will be our fourth competitor for this tournament in which each team brings four golfers and the top three scores will be tallied. This should be a great finish to what has been a very encouraging season."

The outlook is already good for next season, according to Sweeney.

"We had 14 JV golfers play at least ten times as well as some competitive matches," he said. "The schools that we played in

"We compiled the most consistent scores of all the teams and all six players. We actually had the best score if all six scores were tallied."

JV have already committed to playing us twice next season which will give us at least eight JV matches."

The varsity was able to get everyone some playing time.

"On the varsity, all 16 golfers were given a chance to play in a varsity match and a number of young golfers took full advantage of their opportunities," Sweeney said. "Even with the graduation of solid senior group we should have a very competitive team returning to defend the league championship next season."

Girl Scouts raise money for hurricane relief

The Cohasset Girl Scouts want to thank everyone who supported our effort to raise money for Hurricane Relief.

Last weekend the Girl Scouts raised $1,642. Half of the money will be donated to the American Red Cross and their Hurricane Maria efforts and the other half to the Girl Scouts of Texas and Puerto Rico.

The outpouring of support they received was amazing. There was more to this event than raising money. The girls witnessed the greatness that can be achieved if a community works together.

Younger Girl Scouts, grades 2 and 4, had the golden opportunity to stand side by side with an 8th grade Girl Scout and learn about all that a Girl Scout can do. Every nickel, quarter, $1, $5, $20 and even $50 donation will go a long way to help Hurricane Victims.

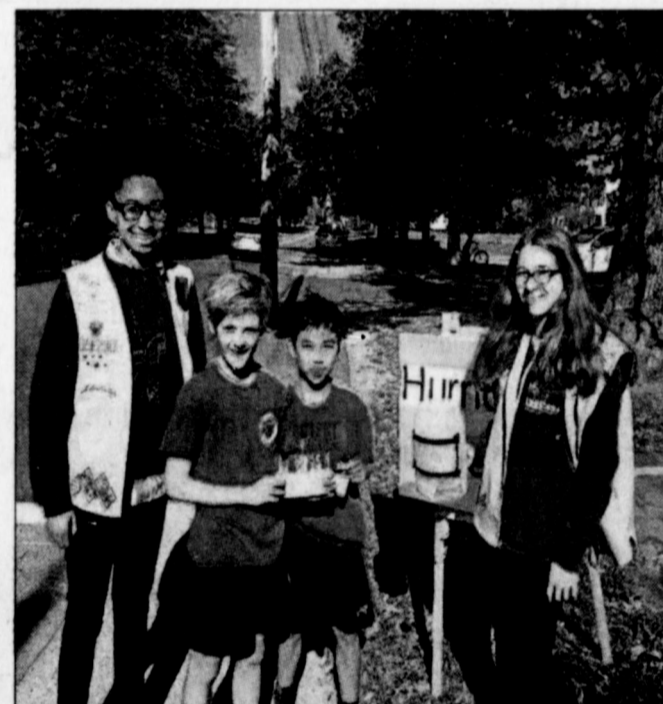

Thank you to Buttonwoods, Walgreens, Stop and Shop and the Recycling Center for allowing a safe place for the girls to raise awareness and funds.

GIMME SHELTER

Tara is a tabby with white on her chest and toes, and beautiful mint green eyes. [COURTESY PHOTO]

Tara's eyes are cat-tivating!

By Joanne Berman

This week Hull Sea-side Animal Rescue is featuring Tara. She is a very sweet-natured young girl, approximately 1 year of age. She is a tabby with white on her chest and toes, and beautiful mint green eyes. Tara is affectionate and loves getting attention. A kind woman surrendered her to HSAR after unsuccessfully attempting to find her owner.

Tara adapted very well once at the shelter because of her easy going personality, and is definitely ready to settle into her very own home. She will be a great companion for an individual or in a family setting, and she gets along well with other cats and perhaps a dog.

You can learn more about Tara as well as the other cats and kittens we have available for adoption by visiting us online at www.hsar.org or by visiting our shelter at 487 Nantasket Avenue, Hull. Open hours are Monday nights, 6:30 to 7:30, and Saturdays, 2 to 3 p.m. If these times are not convenient for you, special appointments can be made by calling our adoption coordinator, at 781-534-4902.

Halloween Party
Our 2nd annual "Adult Halloween Party" is this weekend at the Red Parrot on Saturday, October 28th, from 8 p.m. to midnight. Tickets are $20 and can be purchased on our website or at the door. It is a costume party, but it's not mandatory that you wear one!

There will be prizes for the best costumes, light food and a cash bar. For more info, go to www.hsar.org. Most importantly, the money raised from ticket sales will go directly to HSAR and the care of

CMI rowers head of the class at Head of the Weir

It was a great day for CMI at the Head of the Weir Regatta on Saturday, Oct. 21. The weather said summer, but the calendar said October and October means Hull's annual Head of the Weir rowing regatta -- the only rowing race around here that's worth getting excited about in October!

And there was plenty to get excited about this year, especially if you're a fan of CMI rowing and a fan of great athletic achievement by Cohasset youth.

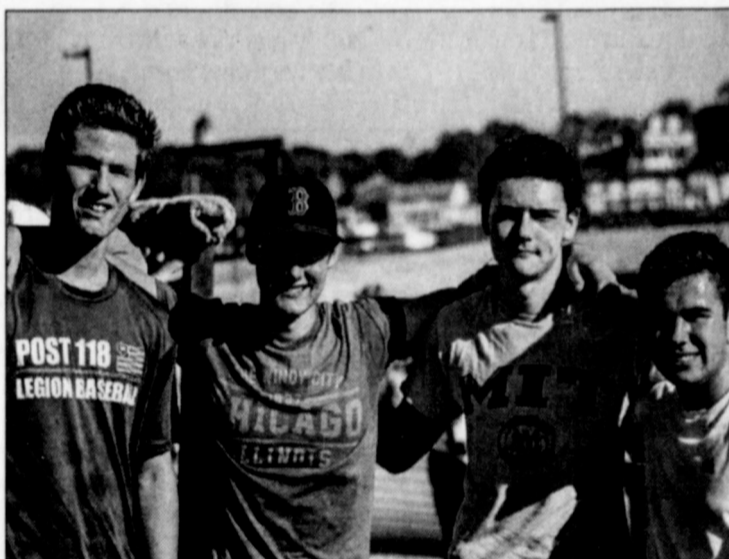

CMI youth crews took home the gold and bronze this year in a race that featured 66 boats. They finished the 5.5 mile race in scorching times of 0:41:54 and 0:45:20, respectively. Each medal-winning boat was stroked by a Lucitt twin (CHS juniors), with Scott Lucitt stroking the older, more experienced crew to victory while Matt Lucitt stroked a younger crew to an amazing finish to earn spot on the podium.

The winning crew was made up of Scott Lucitt, George Grech (junior), Amby Tierney (senior), and Brent Landquist (senior). The bronze medal crew was comprised of Matt Lucitt (junior), Noah Sullivan (sophomore), Hilton Hudson (eighth grader), and Andrew Hoadley (freshman).

It was quite a performance in a very crowded field for a boat with an eighth and ninth grader to finish third overall. Even more amazing is that this was the third year in row that a CMI youth crew turned in the fastest time of any boat in the Weir River race.

Congratulations to CMI and to all the youth rowers who make Cohasset's crew team one of the most competitive open-water crews on the South Shore and indeed, in New England.

Cohasset Rec offering Parkour Introductory Workshop

Cohasset Recreation is excited to offer this introductory Parkour Class. Also known as free-running or l'art du déplacement, Parkour originated outside Paris in the late 1980s and has since become one of the fastest growing sports in the world.

Parkour practitioners learn to navigate their environment and overcome mental and physical challenges in a safe and creative manner. Athletes learn to look at the world through the lens of "parkour vision," turning any environment into a playground for movement and physical challenge. In fact, it's this "vision" that has led to the popularity of the sport via viral videos and action film stunt sequences.

This intro class is designed to accommodate a wide range of fitness and ability levels, and are all taught by ADAPT-certified instructors. New practitioners will be introduced to the movements through this safe and progressive "intro unit." All classes listed are the same Intro. Class, so choose either Saturday, November 4th, or December 2nd. Cost of the class is $21.

Saturday, November 4th:
Ages 6-9: 11 a.m.
to 12:15 p.m.
Ages 10-13: 12:30
to 1:45 p.m.

COHASSET – Elizabeth "Betty" (Jason) Maree, age 88, of Cohasset, passed away peacefully at her home in Sunrise Assisted Living surrounded by loved ones on October 17, 2017.

Born November 4, 1928 in Cohasset, Mass., she was the daughter of Charles and Emma (Naun) Jason. A proud and patriotic 5th generation native of Cohasset, Betty was a life-long resident of the town. She attended Cohasset public schools and worked for the town for 36 years (4-years at Ripley School and 32-years with the Water Department).

Betty was Crowned Queen of Bassing Beach in 1981. She treasured the time she spent at the small cottage on the island with friends and family. Her love of Minot's Light and Cohasset Harbor was strong and enduring.

After retiring, she volunteered at

Elizabeth Maree

Continental Cablevision and won their "Best Camera Award 1988-1989". She was also a long-time member of the Cohasset Historical Society.

She is survived by her daughter Ann Wheeler of Cohasset, grandson Richard Wheeler and his wife Pam of Plymouth, granddaughter Kerri Wheeler of New Bedford, granddaughter Jessica Maree Swist and her husband Kevin of Dighton, special niece Susan Denison of Middleboro, 6-great grandchildren, and her sister Carolyn Jason Cattell of Kingston. Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

HOROSCOPE

Salome's Stars

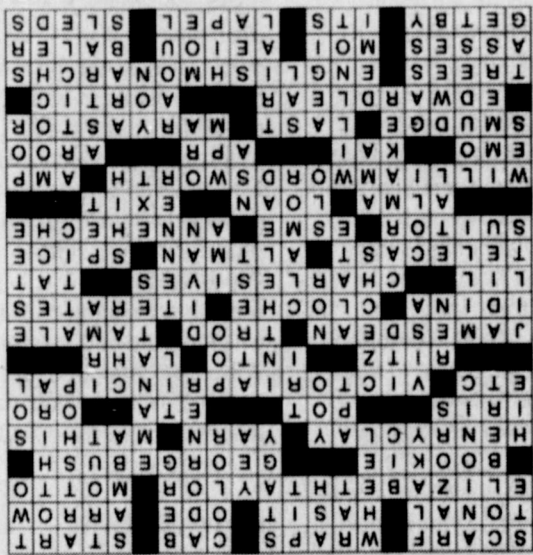

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) This is a good time to speak out on a difficult situation. You're known for your honesty, so people will listen and, perhaps, begin to make long-needed changes.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) The Bovine's sharp business sense alerts you to question the positions of those trying to push the Bull into a deal. Demand to see proof of what they profess.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Your quick thinking helps you get out of a troubling situation that suddenly was thrust upon you. Later on, you can expect to learn more about why it happened.
CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You might feel you've dotted all your i's and crossed all your t's regarding that upcoming deal. But there might be some facts you've ignored. Check again.
LEO (July 23 to August 22) Time for the Lion to be more physically active. It will help shake off any lingering Leonine lethargy and restore your energy levels, so you'll be prepared for what lies ahead.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Helping those in need at this time is laudable. But don't ignore your own needs, especially where it concerns your health. A medical checkup is a wise move.
LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Good news: Your outspoken views about a controversial on-the-job situation could find unexpectedly strong support from a most unlikely workplace faction.
SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You might have to draw on your reservoir of spiritual strength to help someone special through a difficult time. Your loving attitude makes all the difference.
SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Your proven leadership qualities make you the perfect person to take on an important workplace task.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Although some compromise might need to be reached regarding your stand on an important issue, you'll still be able to get the most crucial points across.
AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A chance to make a career change carries both positive and uncertain possibilities. Best advice: Check it out thoroughly and don't be rushed into a decision.
PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You're still a staunch supporter of one side of an important issue. But be prepared to deal with new information that could cause you to question your current stand.
BORN THIS WEEK: You're perceptive and quick to act when you sense that someone needs help. You are an always-dependable friend.
